THE NOW TIME DELEGATION Watch for Today

(IN THE RED)

When Tim Kerr was in Las Vegas with Monkeywrench for The Shakedown, he slipped us an early, unmarked CDR copy of his new project — The Now Time Delegation. He said to keep it under our hats and that Larry at In The Red would be putting it out sometime soon — and that day is now here — Lucky for you! Lisa Kekaula (singer and secret weapon of the BellRays) finds her inner Etta James and belts out a soul performance laced with sassy, ass-kicking, heartbroken authority. Her band is led by the rough and raw sound only available from Tim Kerr who is complimented by the swirling sound of Kari Luna's Hammond. The rhythm combo of Alex Cuervo and Steve Adkins finds a home in the lessons of Motown and Memphis' finest. The Now Time Delegation is a crossroads of musical greatness, a soulful combo which will instantly catch your ear as well as the ear of your brother, your mom and your neighbor. I've been playing that CDR for months now, hoping that I'd get the chance to tell people to buy this record. In fact, the day it came out I went and bought 3 copies and gave 'em to folks as gifts. You'll be doing the same after you are lured in by the originals "Little Miss Fortune," "Stand and Deliver" and "Look to Tomorrow" which stand high right along their covers of "Keep on Pushin," "Raise Your Hand" and "Handle Me With Care." Start to finish Watch for Today combines the genius in our scene now with the beauty of past movements, and that keeps this constantly on my turntable. Trust me, I swear on my Stax box set.
